NEUTRALITY.

Investigation of the Charges of Violation Started by the Government.

President Roosevelt Sends Col. E. H. Crowder to New Orleans.

British Maintain a Great Military Post With Officers Always on Duty.

SHIPMENTS MADE TO SOUTH AFRICA.

Right here on liberty loving American soil, within hearing distance of the monument erected to the memory of Andrew Jackson at Port Chalmette, nine miles north of New Orleans, and on the same spot on which was fought the memorable battle of January 8, 1815, there is operating under English control and sustained by English money a recruiting camp for equines for use in the South African war against the Boers. The attention of President Roosevelt has been called to this indirect violation of the neutrality laws by the heroic Gen. Pearson, who fought with his countrymen until disabled, and who is now in the United States. He has repeatedly called attention to the existing state of affairs, but not until recently has his protest been heeded. Now the President has communicated through Secretary of State Hay with Gov. Heard of Louisiana. The latter wrote to Mayor Capdevielle, of New Orleans, but as it was outside his jurisdiction the matter finally reached the Sheriff of St. Bernard parish, who answered that as far as he knew there was no recruiting of men for South Africa going on within the confines of St. Bernard, but that he was aware supplies were being shipped from the post of Chalmette under the auspices of the British Government. President Roosevelt has determined to sift the matter, and accordingly he has sent Col. E. H. Crowder, of the Department of the Lakes, stationed at Chicago, to investigate the matter and make careful inquiry of every minutiae. The headquarters of the British officers are at the St. Charles Hotel, with regular office hours, during which time a great volume of business is transacted by Capt. Fenner and his assistants. Their visitors include "steamship representatives, cattle dealers and others who have any connection with the Chalmette post." The English officers have prescribed army regulations, are required to be at that post at a certain time and remain until relieved. Officers are constantly on duty. One hundred acres of pasture and land on which are huge sheds, each measuring 100x50 feet and thirty feet high, and one which alone will accommodate 4,000 mules, serve to give the place an appearance of being an army garrison. There is also a freight warehouse wherein are stored lumber, tools and other articles. Standing near is the headquarters of the veterinary surgeons and the hospital for sick or maimed animals. All equines brought here are subjected to a course of treatment if sick and fed well on oats, corn and good feed until turned out on pasture, where they are allowed to remain until in first-class condition, when they are shipped direct on his Majesty's transports across the ocean to South Africa. These transports anchored in the harbor of the Mississippi and flying the "union jack" add a military aspect to the scene that is entirely out of keeping with our "peaceful" attitude. Large numbers of men on the wharf are kept busy loading and unloading these vessels and packing provisions. Ship carpenters are remodeling and repairing the transports for their long journey across the South Atlantic, and it has been many a day since such energy and bustle have broken the stillness of Chalmette. Almost the same can be said of Lathrop, Mo., as is here written of Chalmette, La. In the latter place ten thousand acres of land are used as pasture for horses and mules bought by the English Government for cavalry use in South Africa. Animals bought from any and all points West are sent here and fed until ready for shipment to the clearing station near New Orleans to be loaded if in condition into transports for their destination. Seventy-two car loads mark the largest number of daily shipments and nine thousand head of horses the largest daily receipts. The animals are branded "N" on the right shoulder to signify that it is a North American horse, the Canadian and Hungarian horses being marked "C" and "H" respectively. The shrewdness of the English is observed in all the English operations here since the establishment of these posts, though in 1899 alone it was recorded that seven ships were sent out from Southport, La., in 1900 there were fifty-seven ships, in 1901 seventy-seven ships left the latter place, and in January, February and up to March 15 this year there have been over 23,000 horses and mules sent out from Southport to aid England's cavalymen in the unjust and uncalled-for war of extermination that is going on in South Africa. If all these facts do not argue a complete violation of neutrality laws of our country then the days have passed in which men considered the spirit of the law honestly and squarely without circumlocution for the good of their homes and country.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Hon. John J. Delaney's Entertaining and Instructive Lecture.

Hon. John J. Delaney, of New York City, delivered an entertaining and instructive lecture at Elks Hall Wednesday night under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. His subject was: "The Catholic as an American Citizen." About two hundred knights and their lady friends were in attendance. In addition many of the knights invited their friends both among the clergy and laity. Among the clergymen present were Rev. Father Raffo, Very Rev. Father Ward, Very Rev. Father Fowler, O. P., Rev. Father Hourigan, Rev. Father Leo, Rev. Father Gausephol and others. Mr. Delaney is a lawyer of ability and has held high positions with the Knights of Columbus for years. He is a profound student and eloquent talker. He held his audience spellbound more than two hours. As a matter of fact America and Americans had little to do with the subject matter of the lecture. It was only in conclusion that they were brought in at all. Mr. Delaney went over the history of the church from the birth of Christ until the present time. Of course this included practically the history of the world. But Mr. Delaney showed conclusively how an American could be a better American because he was a Catholic and a better Catholic because he was an American. He paid particular attention to the divorce laws of America, which are sapping away the foundations of the family, and the family makes the State. He was warmly applauded when he concluded. Dr. Rodman was master of ceremonies Wednesday night and acquitted himself admirably. This is the last of the series of lectures that have been given during the winter months under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. Each and every one of these entertainments have been thoroughly enjoyed and reflect great credit on John H. Shea, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, and his co-workers.

STEADY GROWTH.

President Frank Murphy presided with marked dignity and impartiality over the meeting of Mackin Council Tuesday night. The proceedings were made interesting by the initiation of Stuart Glass and the application of Walter Adams for membership. The growth of the council is steady and the present administration is meeting with phenomenal success.

AGAIN ON STAND.

John R. Hourigan, the well known hackman and for years a familiar figure about the Court House square, is again at his old stand, after a long illness that was at one time regarded critical. Mr. Hourigan is an Irishman of the old school and a veteran of the civil war. He has conveyed more young couple to church to be married and children to be christened than any other man in Louisville. Lawyers and others doing business around Fifth and Jefferson are glad to see him at his post.

DECAYING.

Interesting Census Statistics From Counties Kildare and Louth.

Principal Decrease in Population Reported From Rural Districts.

Both Show a Large Percentage of Gain Among the Catholics.

THE NUMBER THAT SPEAK IRISH.

The special census of Kildare and Louth repeats, almost without variation, the features noted in the other detailed reports on the Irish counties. Both counties have declined in population at practically the same rate. Kildare has fallen in population during the decade from 70,206 to 63,566, a decrease of 6,640, or 9.4 per cent. But a thousand of the decrease was on the Curragh camp, so that the percentage of decline in the ordinary population was about 8 per cent. Louth fell during the decade from 71,914 to 65,820, or 8.5 per cent. As in the case of other counties, the decrease is chiefly in the rural areas. Naas has increased in population by 2.7 per cent., Dundalk has gone up to 13,076, an increase of 5 per cent., and is now larger than Drogheda, where there was a decrease of 948, or 6.9 per cent. This rate of decrease, however, was much lower than in the rural areas of Louth, where it varied from 10.8 to 16.3 per cent. Athy, however, is an exception to the rule of the comparative steadiness of the urban population. On a population of 4,886 there was a decrease of 1,287, or 26.3 per cent. in Athy during the decade. The extraordinary decrease is partially explained by the fact that census night 1891 was the eve of a fair and Athy had a temporarily increased population. But that does not completely explain the fact. The District Inspector reports that the increase in the population of Athy in 1891 was "owing to the temporary influx of a number of persons to attend a fair and to increased employment in connection with brickmaking." These new resources have not sufficed to stay the decay of the town and district, which seems exceptional. As we have already noted in the case of other Leinster counties, for which the detailed census has been furnished, the Protestant population seems to be decaying even more rapidly than the Catholic. The percentage of Catholic in Kildare has gone up from 84.1 per cent. to 86.1 and in Louth from 91.3 per cent. to 91.5. Apparently Protestant energy is not able to cope with the depressing influences that mar Irish progress.

The Irish language tables are of special interest on this occasion. Louth had always a considerable bi-lingual population. In fact, in 1891 there were still left in Louth five old Gaels who knew not English. They have followed their fathers since. The bi-lingual population has, however, increased from 2,671 to 3,204. The main increase is between the ages of three and thirty. In 1891 there were only 216 between those ages in Louth who could speak Irish. The number had increased last year to 932. The country of the O'Mores and O'Connors has also felt the stirring of the Gael spirit. In 1891 only 341 persons in Kildare could speak Irish; that number had gone up to 1,198 last April. There is only one unsatisfactory point in the Kildare figures. Only 176 of the 1,198 are girls or women. There are only fifty Kildare women between eighteen and thirty who know Irish, while there are 602 Kildare men. That is a reproach the women of Kildare must remove before April 1, 1911, says the Dublin Freeman.

DEDICATION.

St. Anthony's Hospital Will Open to the Public April 29.

The magnificent new St. Anthony's Hospital will be dedicated by Right Rev. Bishop McCloskey and thrown open to the general public on Tuesday, April 29. All the local and a large number of visiting clergy will participate in the exercises. This institution is the pride of Louisville, and everywhere kind words are heard for the noble Franciscan Sisters, to whose efforts Louisville is indebted for this grand charity.

The public opening and reception will continue for three days. Thursday night a large and enthusiastic meeting of the St. Anthony's Sewing Society was held at St. Boniface Hall, when the ladies made their final arrangements. They will serve dinner and supper for all visitors, who will number up in the thousands. Next week the complete programme of exercises will appear, together with the names of the ladies who will compose the reception committees.

FORESTERS.

Catholic Women Hold Their Biennial Convention at Chicago.

The biennial convention of the Women's Catholic Foresters began Monday in Chicago with 530 delegates and nearly an equal number of alternates present, representing 3,700 women in all parts of the country. The meeting continued throughout the week. The opening session was chiefly devoted to the seating of delegates. The convention opened with solemn religious services in the Holy Name Cathedral, 5,000 women being present. Archbishop Feehan gave the pontifical benediction, and Bishop Muldoon preached the sermon. Five hundred priests were also among those in attendance. At the conclusion of the services the officers of the order sent a cablegram to Pope Leo, notifying him of the opening of the convention and asking his blessing.

Nothing definite has developed from the pending negotiations between Boers and English. The Boers insist upon representative government, which England opposes.

HELP THEM.

All Preparations For St. Cecilia's Bazar Have Been Completed.

Immense Throng Expected at Grand Opening Monday Night.

The Building of a New Church Largely Depends on Its Success.

LOVELY LADIES AND PRETTY BOOTHS.

After weeks of preparation and earnest work everything is ready for the opening next Monday evening of St. Cecilia's bazar in the school hall at Twenty-fifth and St. Cecilia streets, to continue ten nights. The booths in charge of the leading ladies of the congregation will be as follows:

St. Cecilia's—In charge of ladies from the congregation at large, will have an attractive and desirable exhibition.

Young Ladies' Sodality—Fancy work and bric-a-brac. In addition to donations, the young ladies will each contribute some article, many of them being beautiful and rare specimens of their handiwork.

St. Vincent de Paul Society—Will have such things as the men desire, besides articles to interest the elders.

Thus the entire congregation, old and young, are co-operating to make it a success and also contribute to the enjoyment of those who attend. Many valuable and useful articles are to be disposed of at the different booths, and the combination tickets include ten articles, all useful.

St. Cecilia's congregation, after years of earnest and persistent effort, have almost paid off the once burdensome debt, and are entitled to the assistance of their brethren throughout the city in their final effort to clear off the slate and get a clear receipt, thus leaving them unencumbered to devote their energies and labors to providing what the now large and growing congregation needs—a new and much larger church, more convenient school accommodations and other improvements. Admission ten cents. West Main street cars pass the corner of Twenty-fifth and St. Cecilia streets.

APRIL GAEL.

The April issue of the Gael contains an increased number of pages, with an unusually interesting profusion of handsome illustrations, and a great variety of entertaining pieces.

FATHER ANDREW.

Waits For the Chimes He Loved to Ring His Knell.

Out at St. Alexis Hospital at Cleveland in a pretty little white room a benign white-haired old man is breathing out his life. As the days pass slowly on, each one bearing him nearer to a peaceful end, his one question addressed to the soft-voiced nuns as they glide to and fro is, "Are the chimes finished yet?" And when the nurse answers, "Not yet," he smiles patiently, passes his fingers through his hair like an aureole and turns away.

Down at Toledo a score of workmen are climbing like flies over the tall steeple of St. Joseph's church, making it ready for the set of chimes which formerly hung there. And when they reach at their task the foreman simply remarks: "Remember Father Andrew's one wish in life is to hear these chimes again."

The patient old man at the hospital is Father Andrew Sauvedet. It was years ago that he was sent to Toledo. St. Joseph's church had no chimes then, but Father Andrew, as they know him there, by dint of economy and much labor, bought a set. As the years passed the steeple in which they swung became too weak to bear them and they were taken down. Like the old steeple, Father Andrew weakened, too. He labored hard and he gave himself little rest and less sustenance, and he came to Cleveland finally to end his days. As that end drew on over the old man stole a longing to hear once more the music of the chimes he loved so well. The story went out and found its way to his former parishioners. "Father Andrew wants to hear the bells again before he dies," men told one another. Then they reached into their pockets without another word and the work on the steeple began. Day and night they are working there, and the doctors have promised to take the old priest back when the task is done. And the first peal of the rejuvenated bells may ring out joy into a dying man's ears.

CHARITY CARNIVAL.

Never before was there such activity among Louisville Elks. Their coming charity carnival will surpass in every respect anything ever undertaken by them, and the parade on the opening day will be a monster one. All classes of citizens are interested in the enterprise.

KNIGHTS AND LADIES.

The euchre and dance at Music Hall Wednesday night under the auspices of St. Paul's branch of the Catholic Knights and Ladies of America was a grand success, the hall being thronged with merry-makers. Elegant tea sets, handsome brass lamps, clocks, cigars, etc., were among the prizes awarded. The winners were Misses Sophia Kleinholter, Mary Eckert, Madge Montgomery, Mary Hoprice, L. Nairn, Della Connor, Mrs. Aug. Hauri, and Messrs. Dave Burke, George Volz, Charles Barker, Tom Keaney, John Buey, Ben Hutti, Joe Sohn. The Knights and Ladies treated their guests most royally and all had a jolly good time.

UNITED LEAGUE.

Avowed Objects of the Organization England Wants Suppressed.

England Threatens to Send Ten Battalions to Awe the People.

Ireland Asks Only What Has Been Approved in Commons.

TRADES UNION RULES AND WAGES.

Now that the British Government has decided to suppress the United Irish League and has ordered ten battalions of English and Scotch militia to Ireland for that purpose, it is interesting to inquire what is the League trying to do? A copy of its constitution and rules and a statement of its aims, printed in Dublin, have been forwarded by a correspondent. Stated in briefest form the avowed objects of the organization are as follows: First—Full national self-government of Ireland.

Second—Universal and compulsory sale of the landlords' interest in the land to the tenants.

Third—A State-aided system for enabling farm laborers in the country and workmen in towns and cities to become owners of their own homes.

Fourth—Restitution to Ireland of the $15,000,000 a year in excess of her just share of imperial taxation collected by the British Government for many years past.

Fifth—Complete educational equality for the Catholics of Ireland, including the establishment and endowment of a university in whose benefits they can conscientiously participate.

Sixth—The repeal of the coercion act and of the treason-felony act, under which political offenses are prosecuted as ordinary crimes.

Seventh—To secure the election of county councils, which will come together once a year in a national council and agitate for home rule on conditions not less favorable than those in Gladstone's celebrated bill.

Eighth—Preference for articles of Irish manufacture in all public contracts.

Ninth—Preservation of the Gaelic language and the teaching thereof in all publicly supported schools and colleges.

Tenth—Maintenance of trades-union rules and rates of wages by all public bodies.

On their face there seems to be nothing in these avowed objects of the League to call for its suppression by armed force. The entire programme appears to be simply a new movement by the Irish people to secure no more and no less than was only a few years ago offered to them by a British Prime Minister and approved by a substantial majority of the House of Commons. In other words, the Salisbury Government proposes in effect to declare that Gladstone's home rule bill was treason.

WORTHILY BESTOWED.

Badges For Lieut. William Schmidt and Capt. Kraemer.

Last Monday evening two popular and faithful city officials, Lieut. William Schmidt, of the police department, and Capt. John Kraemer, of the fire department, were presented with handsome gold badges. Both have friends all over the city, many of whom gathered at Walters Brothers' brewery, the scene of many happy surprises, but none greater than this. The presence of the two gallant officers was secured by Messrs. Sticks Welker, Henry Kerlin and Will Schaefer, and at 9 o'clock, in the presence of nearly one hundred people, William M. Higgins made the presentation speech, congratulating both upon the friends they had made and the citizens upon having such excellent and watchful guardians. Each was the recipient of an elegant gold badge, bearing appropriate inscription, which Capt. Jacobs and Chief Phil Tyson pinned upon their breasts. The honor was entirely unexpected and neither could hardly find words to express his feelings of surprise and gratitude. A band of music was then brought upon the scene and for a couple of hours jollity and mirth prevailed. Lieut. Schmidt and Capt. Kraemer have been in the service of the city for about ten years, and during that time they have made records of which any man might be proud. The honor was worthily bestowed and will be borne with that dignity which has characterized them in the past. Both departments are elated over the event.

DAINTY POLITICAL TRICK.

That was a dainty political trick Hon. Joe A. Parker played on the socialists, free-thinkers and Christian partyites down at Louisville last Thursday, says the Catholic Telegraph. He gathered their leaders into convention and bound them to vote the Populist ticket first, last and all the time. Joseph is an enemy of socialism, but evidently understands how to clip its wings.

FATHER AND FRIEND.

Rev. Peter De Fraine died suddenly at St. Catharine's Academy, Washington county, Ky., last Monday, aged seventy-six years. He was a native of Belgium, where he was ordained December 20, 1851, coming direct to this diocese. He recently celebrated his golden jubilee at Lebanon. During his more than fifty years as priest he served as pastor of St. Joseph's, Bardonia; President of St. Joseph's College; pastor of St. Charles, Marion county, and St. Augustine's, Lebanon, resigning the last named charge about seven years ago on account of his advanced age, since which time he has officiated only as chaplain at St. Catharine's Academy. He was noted for his kindly manner, humility and charity, the characteristics of the old-time missionary. Father De Fraine was known and universally loved by old and young throughout Central Kentucky, and particularly the children, for whom he always evinced a fondness and fatherly solicitude. He was a saintly man, with sympathy for all and never an unkind word for any.

THAT MULE CAMP.

The agitation for and against the purchase and shipment by the British Government from this country of horses and mules for the Boer war continues, and is approaching another decision. The Boer sympathizers protest against it as a violation of neutrality law; the stock raisers and traders of the West, who find ready sale and good prices for their horses and mules, protest against interference, as it is not a violation of neutrality law. But the sympathies of the one nor the personal profit of the other, nor indeed the partiality or prejudice of the President and his Cabinet, are not the bases on which the matter is to be decided, but the law which it is the duty of the Government to enforce, regardless of results to either of the protesters.

The purchase in this country and shipment from our ports of horses and mules, food, clothing, medicines or anything else except arms and ammunition for use of belligerents in a foreign war in the ordinary way is not a violation of our neutrality law, and it has been so decided in answer to previous protests. Up to date the privilege of the British to purchase and ship horses, mules, meats and grain, and of the Boers to solicit money, purchase and ship food and clothing, have not been interfered with, nor are they likely to be, since they are not violations of law.

But the opponents to the British horse and mule purchases and shipments have struck a new tack and raised a new issue in the case. The neutrality law does forbid the establishment and maintenance of a military organization, camp or base of supplies by belligerents on American soil. It is now charged that the British mule camp near New Orleans, where most of the purchases are received, inspected and shipped, is such an unlawful establishment; that it is in charge of commissioned British military officers, governed by British military regulations; the inspection and care of the stock is by British enlisted men as teamsters of the army, and finally that the stock is shipped directly from the camp under British military supervision on regularly commissioned British transports only.

This puts the question, in an entirely different phase, for which there is no precedent in our history for guidance. If the charges are true, however, it is clearly a violation of the purpose, if not the letter, of the neutrality law. The matter was considered in Cabinet meeting and referred to the Attorney General for investigation and decision. An army officer was sent to New Orleans to make the investigation. While there he visited the camp, examined into its management and business, heard evidence pro and con, and has returned to Washington. It is stated in newspaper dispatches that his report will sustain the charges, then again that it will not. As he is an army officer, sent on a special mission by his superiors, it is clear that all statements as to the nature of his report are mere guesses, since his report will be made first to his superiors and can only reach the public through the department, and probably not until the Cabinet has passed upon the case.

DODGING THE REAL ISSUE.

The United Irish League has not been proclaimed nor the coercion law put into general effect in Ireland, as anticipated. The recent meetings of the Ministers have not been attended by the Viceroy for Ireland, Lord Cadogan, and it is probable the Irish question has been shelved for the present. The Government has its hands full with the Boer war, peace negotiations, finances, the Eastern question, the coronation and a few other things more urgent. Arrests on petty charges to be tried before Magistrates continue in some parts of Ireland, the parties being fined in small amounts or imprisoned for short terms, barring appeal to higher courts, which the Government seems desirous of avoiding, since a decision on the law may declare such arrests and prosecutions illegal and thus stop what seems to be merely a policy of intimidation to check the growth and influence of the United Irish League, but is having the very opposite effect. None of those arrested were charged with any real crime, but simply with inciting to unlawful acts by speaking at League meetings or with encouraging the same by attending such meetings, but no one has been charged with membership of the League, thus seeking to hamper or destroy the League without deciding as to its lawful or unlawful character, the issue which would have to be passed on if an appeal to a higher court were allowed, the very thing which the League leaders desire and the Government evades by arresting and prosecuting only for petty charges, not appealable.

WILL IT BE PEACE?

For the past two weeks all England has been on tiptoe and the world is waiting the result of a conference of the Boer leaders and British officials in South Africa, the Boer officials in Holland and the British Government regarding the ending of the Boer war. What terms have been proposed or considered is not known, nor is there any ground on which to base a surmise of the result. That it has continued so long is evidence of disagreement on early propositions, if not of final disagreement. The first British hope, at any rate, has been blasted—dissension between the Boers as to acceptance of peace at any terms to end the war—as the representatives of the Transvaal and Orange Free State seem to stand firmly and harmoniously together, nor have any of the Boer troops, even from other provinces of South Africa, manifested any desire to desert and give up the cause and accept British terms.

The Boer representatives in South Africa met at Klerksdorp, and after formulating their terms submitted them by cable to President Kruger and his advisers in Holland, then proceeding to Pretoria to confer with Lord Kitchener and other British officials. That the Boer terms were not satisfactory to the British is evident from the fact that there has been two weeks of cable messages between Kitchener and London, several meetings of the ministry (very secret) and the outcome is not yet hinted, though all England is anxiously longing for it. General trade, Government affairs, Parliamentary business, stock market and financial transactions have come to a halt, depending on the agreement or disagreement of the peace conference. Even the ministers are mum, refusing all information, and Parliament is at a standstill for lack of business from the various departments, which is being withheld. Reports as to the respective proposals and the status of the negotiations are unreliable, as the Boer representatives are likewise reticent.

It is such foolish bravado as that of a few Kansas City union bakers that brings labor unions into disrepute and workmen into trouble. A boycott was declared against a non-union bakery and a committee stood in front of the place to warn patrons away. The proprietor applied for and obtained a temporary injunction against the strikers obstructing the entrance to his bakery. When the officer served the notice on the committee one of them took it, tore it up and threw it into the street, and the others denounced and cursed the officer and court. Whatever the merits of the case, it may be taken for granted that the Judge soaked the committee for such flagrant and uncalled-for contempt, as such conduct is wholly inexcusable and can not be tolerated.

The need of more rigid enforcement of sanitary regulations is indicated in the report on smallpox. For the first three months of this year there were in the United States 24,194 cases and 708 deaths, as against 11,496 cases and 149 deaths in the same period of last year. It is noted that the increase in this terrible scourge is entirely in rural districts and a few States where sanitary regulations are not enforced, and which have no provision for the care and isolation of infectious diseases to prevent the inception and spread.

The greatest reception yet given William Redmond, M. P., in this country, occurred Tuesday night at St. Louis. The immense Exposition Music Hall was filled to overflowing with enthusiastic Irish-Americans, and on the stage were clergymen of all denominations and leading citizens and State officers of Missouri. More than $3,000 was subscribed to assist the Irish cause.

It seems we are to have a new jail at last. The Lord knows it is time, for the old one has been repeatedly condemned by grand juries as unfit for a prison and a discredit to the community. Give credit where it is deserved. Score one for Mayor Grainger.

And now Mayor Grainger is catching it for his appointment of Library Trustees. Why, of course. He couldn't appoint all the expectants nor please everybody. There has been no objection to any of the appointees, but the opposition must get in its kick.

It is one of the anomalies of politics that the United States Senators who oppose retaining the Philippines because it will add an alien race to our population also oppose re-enacting the law to exclude Chinese immigrants from our country.

Those who envy the firemen their "soft snap and good pay" will certainly not deny that the boys have earned their salaries in the past few weeks.

LAID TO REST.

Solemn Funeral Services Over Remains of Father De Fraine.

Never before have more solemn or impressive services been witnessed in St. Augustine's church, Lebanon, than those attendant upon the funeral of Rev. Father Peter De Fraine, who died suddenly Monday at St. Catherine's Academy. It was perhaps the largest funeral ever seen there, many coming from adjacent counties to attend, and the sanctuary being scarcely large enough to accommodate the many priests present.

FATHER KENNEDY. Able and Eloquent Dominican Now at St. Louis Bertrand's.

Rev. Father Reginald Kennedy, one of the ablest and most eloquent priests of the Dominican order, has been assigned to St. Louis Bertrand's church on Sixth street. Father Kennedy has for some time past been doing missionary work throughout the State. His many friends and admirers in this city are rejoicing over having him stationed among them, the hope being general throughout the parish since his first sermon at the Dominican church that his services might be secured. Those who heard Father Kennedy preach say his sermons will rank very high among those delivered in the Dominican church, where the preaching as a rule is of the higher order.

PRETTY SCENE.

The ball and reception of Mackin Council at Fountain Perry on Thursday night added another brilliant social triumph to the long list of achievements of that popular organization. The ball room was filled to its fullest capacity, and the dining hall was also well crowded, fully 500 persons being served there during the evening, among the guests being ladies and gentlemen prominent in society circles from all parts of the city. The programme contained the most up-to-date dances and was gone through with thorough enjoyment. The affair reflected great credit upon the committee which had charge, Messrs. Jack Shelley, Charles Raidy and President Frank Murphy. Never did the ball room present a more brilliant scene, as the young women were exquisitely dressed and bewitchingly lovely, and the large floor committee and men as gallant and brave as the knights of old.

HINTS ON STYLE.

Entire suits are made of moire, which is good style if you fancy it, but this sort of silk always suggests an old lady's gown much more than the plain taffeta. It shows up in the children's department this season, so there is no definite rule as to materials for the old or young.

Linen gowns both in white and colors promise to have great popularity this season. Blue, dull pink, green and beige are first choices in colors, and some embroidery in white, even if it is only on the waist, is the modish decoration, with tucks and stitched bands in addition.

In some of the ecru tulle gowns you see a very simple trimming of squares of the material joined at the points and set in like an insertion with the open work stitch. This may head the frounce and outline the seams at either side of the front breadth where the frounce begins.

Vegetable silk is the particular kind which enters into the construction of these fancy braids, as it is said to be more durable and more glossy for this purpose than the pure silk. The herring-bone braids are very useful as well as effective, and all sorts of pretty designs are carried out by running narrow ribbon through them to form loop edges and pretty bow knot patterns.

There are fancy open braids, too, which in themselves have a very lacy appearance, the grenade braids being especially pretty in combination with lace or alone. Pretty flower designs with leaves are formed of braid, very narrow, of course, and French knots, and then you see all sorts of designs in what are called puff braids, both in black and white, and in braids with irregular edges of very soft and pliable, so they can be arranged in almost any form.

One very attractive model in black cloth is striped around the entire length with cloth bands set on in-curved lines, which give a pretty sweep to the skirt. The peculiarity of these bands is that they are piped on the upper edge with green silk, stitched several rows below, and left to hang loose on the lower edge. There are wide spaces between the bands and the little blouse coat is trimmed to correspond, following the same curves on the skirt. Piping with color, with black and white striped silk and using narrow braid to give the same effect around the edges of the bands, seem to be among the season's modes of decoration and innumerable rows of stitching are quite as evident as ever.

The Young Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Council gave another of their really delightful receptions and dances to their friends at the club house Tuesday evening. Many compliments were paid the ladies in charge, Misses Mayme Burke, Josephine Hoertz, Anna McEliff, Mayme Kiely and Anna Daly, who proved themselves most charming hostesses.

The many admirers in this city of Miss Kittie O'Donnell, who came here some time ago, will be pleased to learn that she has accepted a responsible position with the Illinois Central at its Seventh-street depot and will make Louisville her home. Miss O'Donnell is a charming and energetic young woman and very popular among a wide circle of friends here as well as in Chicago.

Cupid must have smiled Wednesday, when young hearts all over the city succumbed to his wiles. The County Clerk's office was kept busy issuing licenses, the most notable among the number being those of Harry Thorpe and Miss Annie Thompson, William Wilkerson and Mrs. Anna Wathen, Albert Albers and Mollie Minogue, and John McMahon and Anna Luhn. All are well known and popular in their respective circles, and that their voyage o'er the matrimonial sea may be safe and joyous is the wish of their many friends and admirers.

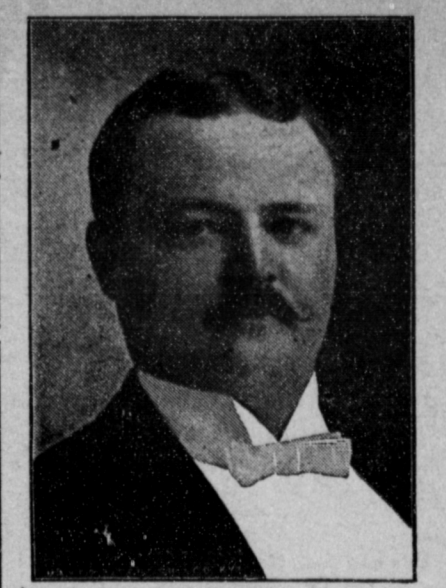

Miss Marie Heverin was tendered a delightful surprise euchre party Wednesday evening in honor of her sixteenth birthday. Besides games there was music and dancing and an elegant luncheon. Beautiful prizes were awarded Misses Florence Hillerich and Henrietta Kaiser and F. Maas and Charles Luskey. Among the guests present were Misses Josie Schmuck, Nannie Daly, Isabel Dannenhold, Marie Heverin, Nell Smith, Henrietta Kaiser, Florence Hillerich, Margaret Norton, Teresa Girardi, Frances Heverin, Hattie Higgins; Messrs. Sebastian Hubbuch, Charles Parsons, Paul Higgins, Moran, Cassidy, Crush, Luskey, Maas, Herbert Eckert and Willie Bosler.

One of the prettiest weddings seen in Jeffersonville for some time was that solemnized Wednesday morning at St. Augustine's church by Rev. Father O'Connell, when Miss Mayme Garrity became the happy bride of Bernard Coyle, a well known young New Albany. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of the young couple, who were warmly congratulated at the elegant wedding breakfast that followed. The bride is the daughter of John Garrity and sister of Will Garrity, the successful young grocer. She is one of the favorites in Irish-American circles and also prominent in amateur theatricals. They are spending their honeymoon in Cincinnati.

Miss Abbie Hennessy was the recipient of a happy surprise at the residence of her aunt, Mrs. John C. Graves. Escorted to the parlor she was surrounded by sixteen of her young friends, who gathered to celebrate her twentieth birthday anniversary. Euchre and vocal and instrumental music were the features. Those present were Misses Abbie Chester, Josie Kelly, Sallie Hannan, Rita Keane, Carrie Sneed, Nellie Keane, Mamie Hennessy, Mamie Keane, Winnie Hennessy, Abbie Hennessy and Mrs. John C. Graves; Messrs. Harry Smith, Edward Beavin, George Mitchell, Lanny Golden, Henry Hagan, William Chester, Daniel Hennessy, Love Graves, John C. Graves and John H. Graves, of California. The prizes were won by Misses Winnie Hennessy and Mamie Keane and Messrs. Edward Beavin and Lanny Golden. The consolation prizes were awarded Miss Abbie Hennessy and Will Chester.

The silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hennessy, of 1808 Barret avenue, will be celebrated this morning at St. Bridget's church with high mass at 6 o'clock. They were united in marriage at the Cathedral of the Assumption by the lamented Father William Dunn on April 19, 1877. Before her marriage Mrs.

Hennessy was Miss Winnie Rawley. The happy couple will receive the congratulations of a host of friends, as they are still leaders among the lively social set of the Highlands, their years having no apparent effect upon either. The fruits of their union is a nice family of nine children, who are Daniel J., Misses Mayme, Abbie, Winnie, Maggie, Masters John J., Jr., Harry, Joseph and Willie, the last two being twins. Mr. and Mrs. Hennessy are prominent in East End Catholic circles, taking great interest in all church undertakings and the success of Trinity Council. We hope to chronicle the celebration of their golden wedding.

Cards have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. P. Bannon announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lillie B. Bannon, and Mr. S. A. Hardesty, of Lebanon, Ky. The wedding will take place at St. Cecilia's church on April 30. Rev. Father Brady will officiate. The marriage ceremony will be performed at 6:30 o'clock a. m. and will be followed by a nuptial mass, after which the bridal party will be tendered a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, 2307 Rowan street. During the morning the happy couple will leave for a trip through the East and will spend several days at each of the following places: Washington, Philadelphia and New York. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hardesty will reside at Lebanon, where Mr. Hardesty is proprietor of the Norris House. He is one of the most successful business men in the State. Miss Bannon, the bride that is to be, is one of the prettiest and most accomplished young ladies in the West End of the city. Both young people have a host of friends who will wish them godspeed on their journey through life. The ushers at the wedding will be Messrs. Otto and John Hardesty, brothers of the groom; Pat Bannon, Jr., a brother of the bride, and Herman F. Woltring.

CHRISTENED.

The new torpedo boat destroyer "Barry" was launched in Philadelphia under auspicious circumstances. Miss Charlotte Adams Barnes, who christened the boat, is, on her maternal side, a great-grand-niece of Commodore John Barry, the "Father of the American navy," and his great-granddaughter, through her great-grandfather, Patrick Hayes, the adopted son of the gallant Commodore. As the sponsor shattered the bottle over the prow of the vessel a salute was fired by a detachment of fifty men of the Seventh regiment of Irish Volunteers, who were stationed at the foot of the ways.

A number of representative Irishmen were present to do honor to the celebrated naval hero of their blood. On behalf of the Commodore Barry Council of the Knights of Columbus, Daniel F. Wade, Grand Knight, presented to Miss Barnes a huge bunch of American Beauty roses. Following the christening ceremony a luncheon was given to 250 guests by Matthias Sedinger, President of the company, in the large office building. The room was elaborately decorated with national and city colors, while from within a bower of green an orchestra furnished American and Irish national airs.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

Henry Tobin, William Owens and Joseph Bermingham, employees of Guinness' Dublin brewery, were killed by the falling of a floor in the malt house.

The Lord Lieutenant has been pleased to appoint Thomas C. Drury to be a Divisional Justice of the District of Dublin metropolis, in the room of the late J. A. Byrne.

The Lord Lieutenant has been pleased to appoint R. W. Bereton Barry to be County Court Judge of the counties of Kildare, Carlow, Wicklow and Wexford, in the room of the late Judge Kane.

Frank McCarthy, assistant to the City Engineer, was fatally injured while superintending the landing of a large boiler for the Cork exhibition. Portion of the wooden casing fell on him, fracturing his skull.

At the late Mayo Criminal Sessions, Judge Dane presiding, there was but one petty larceny case. His Honor declared himself sorry that the grand and petty jury were brought there for such a small case. The county is free of crime.

It has been finally decided by the County Council of Leitrim to erect a monument to the late Owen McCann in the center of the town of Carrick-on-Shannon, as a tribute of respect to his memory. He was always in the front of the battle for Ireland's cause.

Dr. John P. McCarthy died at his residence, at Abbeyfeale, after a somewhat painful illness, at the early age of fifty four years. Dr. McCarthy had been twenty-nine years medical officer of his dispensary district, when he was obliged to retire, in consequence of ill-health, some five or six weeks ago.

The Dublin Gazette announces that the Lords Justices have been pleased to appoint Henry Turner, Esq., heretofore a Resident Magistrate for the County of Armagh, to be a Resident Magistrate for the County of Tipperary; and Robert George Bull, Esq., heretofore a Resident Magistrate for the County of Fermanagh, to be a Resident Magistrate for the County of Armagh.

A despatch from Belfast says: This forenoon a sudden death occurred at the Carlisle circus. It appears that a gentleman named Francis Leonard, Castleton terrace, Antrim road, principal clerk of the customs, took a walk turn in a tram car, and before medical assistance could be procured he died. The body was afterwards removed to the Royal Hospital, where it was identified.

A despatch from London says: I regret to announce the death of John Hunt, of Llanelli, the father of the late lamented Rev. T. Hunt, of Dublin. He was a successful farmer and was one of the oldest and most respected members of the Clonmel Board of Guardians, figuring in many a heated debate in the old days when the Nationalists were fighting the Tories and ex-officio. A warm-hearted, patriotic Irishman, he lived a long life and died honored by all.

While the Unionist and Landlord party are striving to prove that Ireland is reeking with disturbance, the County of Donegal gives the lie to the statement in a most emphatic manner. The people of the northern county have no use for the county jail at Lifford, and in the papers the forthcoming sale of the old building is advertised. It is a pity that it can not be transported to the other side, for with the small demand for such structures here in Ireland, the English authorities would have an excellent opportunity of complying with the growing needs of their criminal class at low price.

A despatch from Limerick says: Three men named Michael McInerney, John Grimes and Michael Buncie, were arrested on a charge of assaulting Sergeant Albert McDowd, Lance-Corporal Greene, and Privates Charles Ridley and William McGrady, of the Yorkshire Light Infantry. From depositions made by the soldiers it appears that they were drinking in the National Hotel when McInerney made some expressions in reference to the uniform worn by the military. Subsequently McInerney returned with a crowd, which included Grimes and Buncie, and an assault was committed as alleged. They were brought before Justice Bourke, and remanded to petty sessions.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Fifty members were initiated last Sunday at Hamilton, Ohio. Wisconsin Hibernians will hold their State convention at Milwaukee in August. A new division of the Ladies' Auxiliary was organized this month at Glencoe, Minn. Providence divisions have all appointed committees for the field day exercises for 1902.

The Providence Hibernian Knights are considering the purchase of new fatigue uniforms.

New York Hibernians are already making arrangements for the State and national conventions.

Division 17 of Valley Falls, R. I., will confer the four degrees on twenty candidates tomorrow afternoon.

Our Eastern exchanges all report a steady growth in membership, very few meetings passing without an initiation.

The Hibernian Benevolent Society of Atlanta is the oldest Irish organization in Georgia, being now in its forty-fifth year.

A union exemplification of the new ritual of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be held in Odd Fellows' Hall in Boston early next month.

A committee of twenty-five is mapping out a programme for the century celebration of the Baltimore Hibernian Society, which takes place next year.

Division 3 meets Monday night at Hibernian Hall. President Cavanaugh and Secretary Sullivan are anxious for a great turn-out of members that night.

Division 10 of Syracuse celebrated its tenth anniversary Thursday night at Kearney's Hall. The musical and literary exercises were high class and well rendered.

All divisions having candidates awaiting initiation can have the degrees conferred upon them Wednesday night, when Division 4 will hold its second big initiation.

Division 1 of Minneapolis made a fine showing last Sunday morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, where the members approached holy communion in a body last Sunday morning.

Division 5 of Somersworth, N. H., held a very successful three nights' fair and netted a substantial sum, which will assist in reducing the debt upon the building erected some years ago.

Middlesex county, Mass., has selected Edward J. Slattery, John J. Crockett, James O'Sullivan and Patrick Collins as delegates to the Denver convention with County President James O'Brien.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 8 of Syracuse attended holy communion in a body last Sunday morning at St. Lucy's church. Monsignor Kennedy, V. G., preached the sermon.

A number of Springfield Hibernians witnessed the initiation of a large class at Columbus, Ohio, last Sunday week. The Springfield division has an invitation to attend an initiation at Urbana tomorrow.

Sixteen new members were received into Division 1 of Milwaukee last week, and thirty applicants are on the waiting list. The total membership of the division is about 325, a remarkable increase in the last year.

Remember that all members of the order are invited to the meeting of Division 1 next Tuesday night. The principal features will be the address by Newton G. Rogers and the reading of an original poem by Thomas Walsh.

Division 9 of Buffalo awarded three handsome prizes at the last meeting, offered during the Emmet celebration under its auspices. Mrs. James Reilly received the diamond ring, Miss Mary Wilcox the gold watch and Michael Doyle the gold badge.

The County Board met recently at Holyoke, Mass., and heard the report of County President O'Donnell. There are now 2,500 members in the various divisions in the county, with $20,000 in the treasury. There are eleven divisions and six auxiliaries, with a total of 800 members.

The Buffalo Catholic Union and Times says it is very encouraging to see the meetings of the Erie County Board so largely attended. Hibernianism is a cause that deserves the support of the Irish Catholic people, and can be best pro-

REMARKABLE CENTENARIAN.

On Wednesday, April 2, there died at Carabane, four miles from Castlereagh, Ireland, a woman named Mrs. Ellen Egan, who had attained the remarkable old age of 113 years. The deceased, who belonged to an ancient and respected family in the parish of Ballintubber, was of a strong and robust constitution, and was able to perform household work, even milk a cow, up to a few weeks previous to her death. Excepting that her eyesight slightly failed about two years ago, she retained all her faculties to the last, and could relate many stirring events of the latter part of the eighteenth century and the early years of the nineteenth century. She could repeat with a rather vivid recollection many incidents of that stirring period and the excitement created by the landing of the French at Killala. She took pleasurable interest in telling how herself and two other girls stole away about seven miles distant to see the French soldiers passing from Frenchpark to Elphin on their way to the battle of Ballinacorney. The venerable lady used to converse freely on later events—the repeal movement and the memorable election of O'Connell for Clare, and would relate many harrowing tales of the sad scenes witnessed during the famine years of '46 and '47. All these events she could remember as distinctly as if they only occurred yesterday. The deceased passed peacefully away in the presence of her children, grand-children and great-grand-children. During her long life she was never known to be seriously ill. She was a MANLY YOUTH. RECENT DEATHS. FROM THE FAR WEST.

John Shively Fatally Injured in South Louisville Yards.
 John Shively, aged eighteen years, son of the yardmaster of the Louisville and Nashville yards at South Louisville, met with a lamentable accident, which resulted in his death Tuesday at Sts. Mary and Elizabeth's Hospital. He was walking along the tracks, unconscious of any danger, when struck and ran over, his leg being cut off and his body fearfully crushed. Young Shively had a promising future before him, and his death is a crushing blow to his parents and their wide circle of friends. His funeral took place Thursday morning from the Holy Name church, Rev. Father O'Connor officiating at the high mass of requiem. The deceased was a young man of many fine traits of character, just entering upon a life of mechanical engineering, and the sorrow felt over his sad taking off was manifested by the large attendance at the solemn obsequies. For the bereaved parents there is everywhere heartfelt sympathy.

HEARD NORDICA.
 Mme. Nordica, the Catholic opera singer, sang at Gray's Armory, Cleveland, Ohio, on Monday night of last week, and charged part of her audience only ten cents each for admission. The 300 girls in Charles Eismann & Co's. waist factory have a spacious hall for entertainments, and a committee wrote to Mme. Nordica, saying the girls would like to hear her sing, but could not afford it. They asked if she wouldn't call at the factory and sing them a song, "just one, please." Mme. Nordica's representative appeared at the factory on Saturday and told the girls that she was extremely sorry because of her inability to oblige them, but that she invited them all to the concert at Gray's Armory where, if they made themselves known at the door, they would be admitted at the nominal charge of ten cents. The girls attended in a body.

MOBILE'S NEW MAYOR.
 The Catholic Knights of America justly may claim that a number of Catholic Mayors have come out of their ranks. The latest, perhaps, is Hon. Walter J. Walsh, who was elected Mayor of the fair Southern city of Mobile, Ala., a few days ago. Mayor Walsh is a young man and his first connection with politics dates no farther back than five years. That he is popular and possesses ability his several successes show. Mobile is not particularly Catholic.

PILGRIMAGE.
 The annual pilgrimage of the American-Irish Historical Society to Lexington, Mass., will take place on Saturday, April 19, 1902, the anniversary of the battle. This is the society's third year's celebration of the event.

STAGE IRISH.
 The "stage" Irishman is being hissed off the stage, on paper and in reviews. Those who are really in earnest, and wish to see him disappear once and forever, should make playwrights and theater managers feel that it will not "pay" to bring him back. Were it known, even in the most populous cities, that no Irishman, by birth or descent, would attend such exhibitions, they would, in double quick time, die a natural death.—[Canadian Messenger.]

Irish of San Francisco to Hold a Great Fair in May.
 A letter from San Francisco announces that an Irish fair will be held in that city from May 1 to May 17, 1902. "This grand and patriotic undertaking," the letter says, "intended to unite our people in the bonds of amity and to enhance their interest in this Commonwealth, is under the direction of that able and gallant champion of the Irish race, the Rev. Peter C. Yorke, whose name and fame are doubtless familiar to you. This fair will be conducted on the most elaborate scale, and extensive arrangements are being made to place it among the notable events of this year on the Pacific coast. The thirty-two counties of Ireland will be represented, and a friendly spirit of rivalry has arisen among the counties, each vying to make the more elaborate display. The County Tyrone booth is not the least active, and we send our greetings to our friends and relatives and solicit their moral support, if not active assistance, to make our display worthy of the county of the great O'Neill.
 "We propose to maintain during the fair a bureau of information and post-office, which will be at your service, and a reading-room for your friends here. Copies of the public journals and other reading matter will be thankfully received for this purpose. We solicit correspondence, advice and suggestions from our friends at home, and respectfully solicit a word of commendation and encouragement from your pen."
 Elizabeth Maguire is President and James Twobig Secretary of the enterprise.

BUCKINGHAM.
 The signal for a treat at the Buckingham is the coming next week of Bob Manchester's Cracker Jacks, for the show has always made good, and this season promises to be no exception, as it is stronger and larger in every particular. Two bright, crisp, up-to-the-minute burlesques are this season presented with new wardrobe, magnificent scenic and electrical effects, and are said to be very funny satires on the latest New York successes. They are from the prolific pen of Bob Manchester, and as he is the author of many comic satires they are undoubtedly written in his happiest vein. A superior corps of vaudeville artists and pretty girls will be present this third edition of the Cracker Jacks, the company numbering thirty-five people. The closing number is said to be full of charming surprises and contains many large musical numbers, introducing the entire company in one brilliant laugh producer. Harvey Parker, the great wrestler, who will meet all comers at every performance, and will forfeit $25 to any one he fails to throw in fifteen minutes, will be a special and attractive feature. Local talent invited.
